Powered by robust volume growth, commercial vehicle (CV) major Ashok Leyland delivered better-than-expected revenue growth in the second quarter (July-September/Q2) of 2026-27 (FY27). While the top line performance was strong, margins came under pressure compared with the year-ago quarter, led by higher input costs. The company was, however, able to mitigate cost inflation via multiple measures, including sequential price hikes.

Ashok Leyland is positive about the demand outlook and expects the CV industry to register double-digit growth in FY27. At the current price of ₹160.65, the stock, which has gained about 8.12 per cent over the last one year is trading at 22x its 2027-28 (FY28) earnings estimates.

The firm reported revenue growth of 39.4 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y), ahead of estimates. This was supported by a 31.7 per cent Y-o-Y increase in volumes, while realisations grew 6 per cent Y-o-Y and 5 per cent sequentially. The improvement was broad-based across medium and heavy commercial vehicles (M&HCVs), light CVs, and non-CV businesses. Demand for M&HCVs remains strong on account of replacement demand from ageing fleet, a better total cost of ownership for Bharat Stage VI trucks, higher fleet utilisation, an increase in freight rates, and higher spending on infrastructure (infra) and construction activity.

Although the base will be higher going ahead, the company expects the CV industry to register double-digit to mid-teens growth in FY27. It expects to outperform industry growth on the back of a healthy product launch pipeline. The anticipated outperformance and market-share gains will be driven by an expanded Hippo and Taurus portfolio of heavy-duty trucks, the scaling up of 360-horsepower variants in the third quarter (October-December/Q3) and the addition of more air suspension multi-axle vehicle models.

360 ONE Capital expects volume growth in FY27 to be stronger than expected, driven by sustained industry momentum, goods and services tax-led replacement demand, and improving fleet utilisation. Demand is also expected to remain healthy in FY28, supported by infra activity and continued fleet replacement, says the brokerage.

On the export front, volumes in the Gulf Cooperation Council countries fell 20 per cent in Q2 owing to logistical challenges. However, the company expects a revival in the second half of FY27 as its Ras Al Khaimah plant in the United Arab Emirates nears full capacity. Demand momentum remains healthy in major markets such as the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation region and Africa.

Ashok Leyland's non-CV businesses, too, registered strong growth, outperforming its CV business. The aftermarket, power solutions, and defence segments grew 20 per cent, 33 per cent, and 66 per cent, respectively, over the year-ago period. Defence revenue stood at ₹400 crore, and the outlook remains strong given the healthy order book and tender pipeline.

Ashok Leyland has effectively reduced its business cyclicality by focusing on non-truck segments, points out Motilal Oswal Research. Its continued emphasis on margin expansion and prudent capital expenditure control should help improve returns over the long term. A net cash position will enable the company to invest in growth opportunities in the coming years, say analysts led by Radha Agarwalla of the brokerage. Motilal Oswal has reiterated its "buy" rating with a target price of ₹195.

While the overall performance was good, margins remained under pressure. The operating profit margin came in at 10.1 per cent, down 202 basis points (bps) Y-o-Y.

Sharp inflation in commodity prices, including steel, natural rubber, and fuel, along with higher conversion costs, pushed material costs up by 340 bps sequentially to 74.9 per cent of revenue, crimping margins. The operating profit margin, however, remained flat sequentially, aided by price hikes, a favourable product mix, cost controls, and operating leverage.

Elara Securities expects input cost pressures to moderate from the fourth quarter (January-March/Q4), paving the way for a gradual margin recovery.

New SIP research shows patience is indeed a virtue

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH

In October, frustrated by more than two years of stagnant returns, Anindya Mondal (name changed on request), a Kolkata-based investor, stopped his systematic investment plan (SIP) in a largecap fund. He decided he would re-enter the market once it started moving up. Many other investors did the same, resulting in the stoppage ratio for mutual funds climbing to 115.7 per cent in October 2026 (5.1 million new SIPs registered, 5.9 million discontinued or completed). Such investors watched in dismay as the Nifty 50 turned around (up 10.1 per cent so far) in November.

A new Motilal Oswal Mutual Fund (MF) study also corroborates what smart investors have intuitively known, and financial advisers have recommended, for long. Increasing the duration of SIPs reduces the probability of poor outcomes.

Key findings

The Motilal Oswal MF study, which covered a more than 21-year period from April 2005 to October 2026, found that SIPs held for longer periods have historically recorded fewer negative returns. The study found that the number of SIPs recording negative returns reduced as the investment period increased from five to seven and then 10 years.

For five-year SIPs, negative returns were recorded in 1 per cent of observations in Nifty 100, 2 per cent in Nifty Midcap 150, 10.5 per cent in Nifty Smallcap 250 and 2 per cent in Nifty 500. None of the 10-year SIP observations in Nifty 100, Nifty Midcap 150 and Nifty 500 recorded negative returns. In Nifty Smallcap 250, only 0.7 per cent of observations recorded negative returns.

The study also found that while average returns remained broadly similar across these periods, minimum returns improved.

The analysis included monthly rolling SIPs of four major indices. The long period of coverage meant the analysis included the 2008-09 financial crisis, the 2013 market downturn and the Covid-19 period.

Why staying invested pays

Longer SIP periods allow investors to buy across different market phases. "Buying when markets fall helps lower the average cost of purchase," says Abhishek Kumar, Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi)-registered investment adviser (RIA) and founder, SahajMoney.com. This helps to improve returns when the markets recover.

Market recoveries often take investors by surprise. "Investors who stop SIPs have to often resume purchases at higher prices," says Kumar.

Exiting when the market performs poorly is a poor strategy. "A small number of strong trading days can account for a substantial part of a year's market return. Being out of the market on those days can affect returns," says Deepesh Raghaw, a Mumbai-based Sebi RIA.

Financial advisers suggest that only money that is not needed over a seven-year period should be invested in the equity market. This allows investors to stay invested in equity funds even during bad phases.

Stopping SIPs is appropriate in certain circumstances. "Investors approaching an important goal within one or two years should stop SIPs in equity funds. This will help them protect gains and improve the certainty of meeting their goal," says Kumar.

Investors may also reduce or stop SIPs if their cash flows no longer allow them to invest, say due to a health crisis or job loss. "Investors should pause or stop SIPs if continuing at the same amount would disturb their target asset allocation," says Raghaw.

He does not favour tactically stopping SIPs when valuations are very high or increasing SIP amounts when valuations are low. Most investors, according to Raghaw, would find it difficult to pull off such tactical moves for behavioural reasons. "If you wish to adjust your portfolio, do so by selling a portion of your equity holdings," he says.

Longer the tenure, lower the risk

Probability of index SIPs with negative returns (%)

Index	5-year	7-year	10-year
Nifty 100	1.0	0.5	0
Nifty Midcap 150	2.0	0	0
Nifty Smallcap 250	10.5	5.1	0.7
Nifty 500	2.0	0.5	0

Above are the results of a study analysing monthly SIP investments for 5-year, 7-year, and 10-year periods across four indices over a 21-year horizon; Data shows the percentage of historical rolling SIP observations that ended with negative returns

No Will or nominee? How heirs can claim shares, mutual funds

An investor's death without a Will or registered nominee can make it difficult for family members to access shares, mutual funds and fixed deposits. Legal heirs must establish their entitlement under the applicable succession law before banks, asset management companies or depositories transfer the assets.

In India, inheritance without a Will is governed by the personal law applicable to the deceased. The relevant law determines who inherits and in what proportion.

A succession certificate or legal heirship certificate helps establish a claim but does not, by itself, determine ownership. The Securities and Exchange Board of India's simplified transmission framework allows claims up to ₹30 lakh for demat holdings and ₹10 lakh for physical shares or mutual fund units, subject to prescribed documentation. The Reserve Bank of India permits simplified settlement of bank deposit claims up to ₹15 lakh without necessarily requiring a succession certificate.

Make a Will and clearly specify how financial assets should be distributed. Add nominees to bank accounts, demat accounts and mutual fund folios.

Revise nominations after major life events. Record bank accounts, investments and folio numbers in a document.

Tell trusted relatives where important financial documents are stored.
